

“Reception and...’: Reception in Comparative Perspectives”

A TALK BY

Provost Ralph Hexter

Friday, October 26, 2012

4:10 - 6:00pm

Sproul Hall, Room 912

Provost Hexter will speak about Reception and Reception Studies in the context of his work on the reception of Greek and Roman literature. He has focused in particular on readers of Virgil and Ovid from antiquity to the present. Literary history, commentary, translation, cultural capital, the history of sexuality: these are but some of the topics illuminated by a reception-oriented perspective.
