

Goethe and Literary Studies after 1800

Stefan Uhlig

Kings College, University of Cambridge

Friday, February 14

4:00pm-6:00pm

912 Sproul Hall

Stefan Uhlig is a Lecturer in English literature at Kings College in the University of Cambridge. His work and teaching focus on eighteenth-century and Romantic writing. He is completing a book on the history of modern literary studies, and has co-edited Wordsworth's Poetic Theory (2010) and Aesthetics and the Work of Art: Adorno, Kafka, Richter (2009).

Sponsored by the Davis Humanities Institute
Receptions Cluster and Comparative Literature

For information, contact Brenda Schildgen (bdschildgen@ucdavis.edu).